

The Bee.

Thursday Dec. 6th, 1877.
Office in Sanford & Hawley's Store.

THANKSGIVING.

The day was observed with less spirit than usual, owing to the disagreeable cold rain that fell. Services were held in the churches in Sandy Hook, and at the Episcopal and Catholic church, in the forenoon, but the attendance was not large. Dr. Maribee preached an excellent sermon, and it should have been heard by all of his congregation.

There were several familiar faces in town, visiting their friends, and a few went out of town to make merry. With ourselves, the day was brightened by the kind remembrance of Mrs. Henry Sanford and the Misses Florence S. and Mamie Glover, who have our sincerest thanks for presents of a substantial character.

We have a word to say to that friend who intended to send us a turkey, but did not, thinking that everybody else would. What in the world would we have done with three thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine turkeys on hand for one meal? They did not come. The next time don't get scared about what other people intend to do but do your part. That same kind of reasoning of the 3399 persons lost us a turkey. A false report was started about our having a turkey, by a neighbor hanging up a turkey in a tree back of our house, and killed it. Those who saw it said, "the editor is going to eat turkey." But we know better.

THE NEWTOWN LIBRARY.

We wish to call attention to this most worthy enterprise, and if possible awaken an interest for its preservation, and place the stability of it beyond question. Our attention has been called to what appears to be the indifference of our citizens to the subject. It cannot be possible that any one could wilfully ignore the claims of the founders of this library and their noble efforts to establish that which proves to be, if sustained, a blessing to any town and a mark of intelligence of its citizens. The society is in need of funds, to purchase books, and will hold a meeting next Tuesday evening, for the purpose of electing officers, and to devise means to keep the institution alive. An earnest appeal is here made to all who feel interested in the library, to make contributions either of books or money.

Many of our citizens are abundantly able, to contribute, and ought to feel it a duty to aid in some way to keep the library established. There are quite a number in town, who, by their acts have shown that they are willing to do their part, and if a few more were to do as much as they have done it would greatly encourage the officers and members of the association. We hope that this appeal will reach many who will come forward next Tuesday and give substantial aid.

THE SOCIABLE.

On Tuesday night, the sociable given in Sanford's Hall, for the benefit of the Newtown Library, was a decided success financially, and would have been more largely attended had the night been clear. The weather was threatening, the night unusually dark, and because of this no doubt many stayed away. Several were present from Zia, and two gentlemen of Bridgeport, Messrs. Savage and Parsons, who never miss an opportunity of visiting Newtown when there is a Hop or sociable. Sandy Hook, especially the Glen, was well represented. Hawleyville, Cold Springs, and Newtown Street did well, and when the Grand March commenced we saw with astonishment that one of Bethel's Lyons had joined the happy throng, and escorted one of Newtown's misses. There were eight sets at one time on the floor. Some were present who did not dance, but they watched the movements of others who gracefully followed the splendid music of Bradley's band. The refreshments were served between twelve and one o'clock, and there was more than enough to supply those present. The cake remaining was disposed of at auction, by Marcus C. Hawley, Esq. A number of wee china dolls were placed in some of the cakes, and as the young ladies and gentlemen found one, it occasioned considerable merriment. One young gentleman, who of course knows the old play "Diamond cut Diamond," unconsciously attempted to cut china with marble, and learned at the first trial that it could not be done, at least he does not want to try it again. We think he would not have felt so bad if he had tried to cut that doll, in a room by himself. One other notable incident to record happened thus: a gentleman and lady, who have never been blessed with a cherub, though married several years, were seated at the table. The wife and husband were busy eating cake, and conversing with friends, when lo! the wife discovered and drew forth a doll. The shouts of laughter that followed drew all eyes to the table, and instantly they were startled by the husband jumping up, and mounting his chair, screaming out, twins, dropping his arms, and crowing with a will. The joke was a good one, and made lots of fun for all present. We hope that when the next sociable takes place all may be present again, and enjoy it as they did this one.

30 boxes of those choice Double Crown Mac-etel Raisins just received at L. B. Booth's 50 boxes more coming. Help yourself at 10 cents a pound.

A GAME SUPPER.

Last week Mr. Wm. J. Dick invited a number of his distinguished friends in different parts of the State, to be present at his hotel Friday evening, and partake of his hospitality. Invitations were extended also, to several of our townsmen, and of the number invited the following gentlemen responded: R. A. Lyon, Geo. L. Cushman, M. D. Wilbur, F. P. Norman, Sheriff Geo. W. Lewis all of Bridgeport. Wm. F. Taylor and Howard W. Taylor, of Danbury. Henry B. Graves, of Litchfield. Theo. F. Platt, New Haven, T. B. Curtis New York, S. Cornell—H. D. Perrin, Brooklyn, P. H. Skedmore, C. H. Peck, Saml. C. Glover, L. B. Booth, Dr. Monroe Judson, of Newtown. From those invited, but unable to attend, letters were received expressive of regret, but filled with many thanks, and good wishes. They hoped that the occasion would prove a joyous one. Of this number were Messrs. Treat & Norton, lawyers and Col. Sumner, of Bridgeport, (this latter gentleman prepared a poem, to be read, which will appear in the papers.) L. K. Brewster, and L. K. Wildman, editor of Danbury Democrat, and others.

The supper was served in Dick's very best style, about 9-12 o'clock, and consisted of partridge, quail, prairie chicken, canvas-back duck, oysters, wine, etc., and was pronounced by gentlemen conversant with such matters, to be the most excellently prepared game that they ever ate. Mr. P. H. Skidmore presided, and conducted the "feast of reason and flow of soul," in his usual pleasant style.

Toasts and speeches were made, that were appropriate to the occasion, and the whole time spent in the most cordial and friendly manner, and it was not only a feast for the inner man, but one for the intellectual also.

The guests from out of town remained at the Hotel all night, and returned to their respective homes Saturday, abundantly satisfied with the attention they had received, and convinced that Mr. Dick's reputation as a hotel keeper is well established, and that he is second to none in the State.

A SURPRISE.

Friday night last a party of young ladies and gentlemen were invited to the house of Mr. Geo. W. Stuart, for the purpose of giving Mr. Levi C. Morris a surprise. The invitations were accepted, but there was a slight hitch in the programme, owing to the fact that no one had arranged the plan for getting Levi to the house, without creating suspicion. Mr. Edgar F. Hawley came to the rescue and got Levi interested in a party, and at the same time prepared some packages. Levi hurried to the barber's for a shave, from there to his room, and came out again dressed in his neatest style. Edgar trailed his victim along, until the appointed hour, and then said to Levi that he guessed the party up the street had been postponed. A look of disappointment gathered on Levi's brow, seeing which, Edgar thought it to be a good time to play that little game, and as Levi turned to go to his room to change his clothing Edgar hailed him with the announcement that there were some packages that Mrs. Stuart wished taken to her house, and that he would like to have him take them down immediately. Levi grabbed the packages, and started for Mr. Stuart's, and was ushered right into the parlor, in which were seated a score of ladies and gentlemen, who greeted him in a manner that surprised him into a bashfulness that made him wish that there was an opening in the floor so that he might escape. The carpet prevented an exit, and he declined a trip through Brussels, preferring to go as other travelers did. Levi having recovered his astonishment saw the trick that had been played upon him, and is cursing his wrath against Edgar, and shakes his head at the editor. Levi might as well own up that he has been thoroughly surprised and give his friends the credit of a happy social evening. During the evening a gentleman and lady disguised as tramps knocked at the door, and scared several out of a full year's growth. O, that Edgar.

A SERIOUS FALL.

Mrs. Josephine Sherman, wife of Mr. Wm. A. Sherman, residing in Sandy Hook, went out upon the back porch of her house to shake a table cloth, and the railing against which she leaned gave way, precipitating her to the ground. She fell into a deep drain, built up with stone, and open at the top, receiving several cuts on her arms, and injured herself quite seriously. It was indeed very fortunate for her that she was not killed.

In Memoriam.

The funeral of Mrs. Andrew C. Hull, of Hawleyville, daughter of James Lake, took place Friday, at one o'clock, and was attended by a large number of her friends and relatives. Rev. J. P. Hoyt conducted the services, and preached a most excellent sermon. The remains were taken to the Land's End Cemetery. Mrs. Hull was only 24 years of age, and leaves four small children. She was a lady highly esteemed by all who knew her, and her early death was much lamented. She was ill for several weeks, and partially recovered, but had a relapse, which terminated her life Wednesday, Nov. 28th.

This is the eighth death in this little village, during this year.

A young man named Morgan, residing on Staten Island, died Wednesday, Nov. 28th, and his funeral was attended by Mr. J. L. Hughes and wife, who were notified by telegraph of his death, Thanksgiving day. Young Morgan visited this town a year ago last Summer for his health, and formed the acquaintance of many who deeply regret his early death.

Mr. Russell Curtis, of Bridgeport, died Friday, Nov. 23d, aged 54. He was in this town last Summer, and boarded at the house of Mrs. L. B. Cook. He was then in very feeble health.

A FINE MICROSCOPE FOR A FEW CENTS.

A well made, genuine Microscope—not a bit of molded glass in a paper, or metal ring, or tube—but one with single Lenses, Diaphragm, Stand, etc., is not only useful in every family, but is very interesting. Such instruments have hitherto been too costly for the general public.—The Editors of the American Agriculturist, in connection with an Optical Manufacturing Company, have, after many experiments and much invention succeeded in producing a genuine Microscope, with three fine Lenses, Stand, etc., which, by use of machinery, and very large manufacture, is now made at far less cost than has ever before been done. Scientific men, and others, say it is decidedly superior to anything ever before offered so low as $2.50; but this one is sold for $1.50. But one is given to every Subscriber to the American Agriculturist who simply sends 40 cents to the regular subscription price—that is, the paper is sent one year, with the $1.50 Microscope, for only $2.00. It to be delivered free to any part of the country, 15 cents extra to be added. A full description and all particulars can be had by sending your address on a Postal Card to Orange Judd Company, New York; or better still, send them 10 cents (half price) for a post-paid sample copy of the paper,—which will give a full description of the Microscope, and also much valuable reading and engravings, etc., and be richly worth far more than its cost.

Nor disagreeable; hardly more bitter than lager beer; and much more satisfactory and pleasant. Simon's Liver Regulator can be taken at any time, without interfering with business or pleasure. It is so gentle, safe, and such a good digester, that it is often used after a hearty meal to settle the food and relieve any apprehension that the meal may disagree with you.

We were exposed last week to a pitiless storm, that wet our feet and stockings and indeed our person all over. In fact we took a cracking cold, which brought sore throat and severe symptoms of fever. The good wife asserted her authority, plunged our feet in hot water, wrapped us in hot blankets, and sent our faithful son for a bottle of AYER'S CURE-PECTORAL. It is a splendid medicine—pleasant to take, and did the job. We slept soundly through the night and awoke well the next morning. We know we owe our quick recovery to the Pectoral, and shall not hesitate to recommend it to all who need such a medicine.—Tehuacana (Texas) Presbyterian.

Correspondence

Woodbury.

Your correspondent was "out of town" last week, though he did not go to "New Amsterdam." But the correspondence from the neighboring village burghs was so voluminous that his non-appearance could be no more missed than his nameless personality.

Something went wrong in the proceedings of our school visitors' meetings, or other proceedings, and, as a result, all the teachers were summoned for a new examination. It is not publicly known what was the result of this new hearing, nor what effect it will have upon the legality of the school terms, or the right of the teachers to draw their pay at the close of their several terms, as it is a positive requirement of law that the teacher shall have a certificate from the examining board before commencing the school term.

The Parker Academy is in a very flourishing condition. It has a larger number of scholars than has attended in many years. Additional seats for the school room became necessary to accommodate the increased number. The principals, Mr. and Mrs. Rood, are both excellent teachers, and give great satisfaction to their patrons. They have added an additional inducement for the attendance of pupils, in opening a department for instruction in vocal music. Prof. W. A. Gordon, the accomplished organist and successful teacher, has charge of this department. A prosperous future may be predicted for this flourishing institution.

Ex-State Senator, Earle Buckingham, a musical teacher, of many years' experience, and unbounded success, has opened a singing school in the First Congregational chapel, which is well attended. The pupils will make melody in their hearts as well as with their voices if they strictly follow his instructions.

Hector Baldwin's new house has made rapid progress in the last few days. It is nearly enclosed, and at its present rate of finishing it will be ready for habitation in a brief space. Its style of architecture is very singular. It is difficult to tell whether it is after the Ionic, Corinthian, Doric, Medival, Gothic or Composite order of architecture—our best judgment is that it belongs to the latter. It certainly is different from any other house in town. It reminds me of a little occurrence, which happened in this town in 1851, when a certain lawyer was "building him an house" that was of a new style, very different from the ordinary salt-box style, that had prevailed for half a century. It was the subject of much remark and inquiry, and some curious criticism, all of which was received with the lawyer's ordinary good nature. One day the owner was in the garret, looking out of the window which was of the Gothic order, when a son of the Emerald Isle, with a mouth as big as a barn door, agape with apparent astonishment, stood looking up at the attic window. "What are you gazing at, Pat?" said the owner, much amused. "Ah, faith in me, Jasus!" replied Pat, "I was trying to find out what kind of a building this was. At first I thought it was a church, till I saw the devil looking out at the window." "Well, pass on, Pat," said the lawyer, "I owe you one." "The dogs are holding high carnival at sheep killing in the south part of the town, on Bear Hill, Ragland, and Hesky Meadow. Much damage has been done. If the owners of vicious dogs do not restrain them there will be a general shooting by an organized band of regulators.

The beautiful weather cannot last long. Cold Winter is coming. Already the cold begins to pinch, and householders keep our enterprising and successful stove dealers and house furnishers, Mayne, of North Main street, and Hitchcock, of the Hollow, so busy supplying orders that they hardly get time to say their prayers, though one of them is a "deacon." The fact is, they know how to cater to the wants of the public, and "verily, they have their reward."

Woodbury has a nobby little newspaper, which calls itself The Woodbury Reporter, in which the people are bound to have a good deal of pride, when it shall "enlarge its phylacteries," and add to its staff of reporters. And it has a nobby little correspondent, who glories in the nom de plume of "W." But we "reckon" he has not always resided in town, and is not so well posted in the feuds of the town as some of the "old stagers." It is a common remark among the latter that they have never seen the "old feeling" in a more active state of effervescence than for the past year. So that when the correspondent says that the "old ladies, Up and Down" have supped together, and billed and cooed, and said "peccavi" to each other, we are forced to say that the statement admits of a reasonable doubt, unless we adopt the translation of the old sinner, who went behind his barn and whispered low to himself "Peccavi, peccavi—ah! that's it, for it means, being interpreted, peek at 'em."

A few weeks since your correspondent expressed the hope that there would be no more raffles in Galpintown. But unfortunately they seem to have become a settled institution there, and are drawing some of our youths from a better way. They have introduced into them a new attraction, called by some irreverent persons the "female rest." Only the initiated know what this is. It is certainly unknown to your correspondent. The outside appearance is that when a couple tires of the raffle it retires seeming to desire to be alone. And
